Dear readers,
With this issue another great term comes to an end. This session was filled with various inter house and inter school activities. The first Inter house MUN was conducted during this year and it was great a success as it paved the way for an inter school MUN.

The term began with the students coming back after the holidays. Everyone seemed to be refreshed and raring to go. A trek, debates, quizzes, sports and much more was lined up for the students. All in all it was a very busy term and to add to it we have the half yearly exams coming up.

We also bade goodbye to our Deputy headmistress- Mrs. Anita Kashyap and welcomed the new Deputy Headmistress- Mrs. Nutan Buddhiraja .

We have also introduced a quiz in this edition which I am sure you will enjoy solving. Just a reminder... the first three correct submissions get a reward, so get started and study hard for the exams. Good luck and happy reading!

YPS Extends a Warm Welcome!

Tanya: Good morning! Ma'am you have joined YPS after having had a long teaching experience. Please tell us something about it.

Ms. Budhiraja: While I was writing my dissertation for M.Phil, I started working in different colleges as a lecturer. So, I was both a student as well as a teacher. Later I started teaching in schools in New Delhi, as a Political Science PGT. After some years I had to relocate to the Middle East with my family, and there I started working in international schools. Apart from being introduced to an international curriculum, I taught students, belonging to 48 different nationalities. Even the faculty comprised teachers coming from across the globe. This proved to be an immense learning experience for me. I learned new things from people around the globe, including their varied cultures.

Tanya: What do you find the most striking quality about our school?

Ms. Budhiraja: The most striking thing about YPS is the holistic development, which today every other school talks about but I have actually seen it here. There is balance between sports, hobbies, co-curricular activities and academics. YPS provides a platform for healthy competitiveness through inter-house and inter-school events. Technology is also being used effectively. Additionally, the teachers have an understanding and genuine concern for the students.

Tanya: What is your opinion about 'success in life'?

Ms. Budhiraja: Success means different things to different people at different ages. It can mean to be in a team, or achieve goals in life....to be at different places and positions. Later, in life it may mean, having a house with all needs fulfilled. For me at this point of time, success is not linked with a monetary aspect but with accomplishment, peace, happiness...in doing what I like to do and putting forward positive contributions.....to sleep without fear of guilt, is success. It would have been different, say 15 years ago and might be different after a few years.

Tanya: What message would you like to convey to our students?

Ms. Budhiraja: The students really need to keep their focus and avoid distractions. They should plan for their future and focus on it. I want the students to give emphasis on good values. They should be independent thinkers and not get influenced by what others say or think. I wish them all the very best in whatever they strive to do.

Tanya: Thank you ma'am. We are glad to welcome you to our YPS family.

“Saare Jahan se Achcha, Hindustan Hamara”

Every year, 15th August is celebrated as Independence Day to commemorate India's freedom from the British, after 200 years of colonial rule. This auspicious day marks the birth of the biggest democracy, India. Independence Day binds the people of different cultures and religions into a bond of unity and brotherhood. The whole nation stands together and salutes the martyrs who sacrificed their lives for the sake of our country's freedom.

On August 15, 2016, our school celebrated the 70th Independence Day. The special assembly began at 9 a.m. with our Headmaster, Mr. R.P. Devgan, hoisting the national flag. This was followed by the national anthem sung by the school choir. The NCC cadets marched smartly around the school quadrangle and saluted the flag. The Head Boy and the Head Girl delivered a speech commemorating the heroes who led India to freedom. It was followed by medley of patriotic songs and a dance.

Today, besides saluting the freedom fighters, we should also pledge to stay united!
“Saare Jahan se Achcha, Hindustan Hamara”.

HERE'S TO NEW BEGINNINGS!

YPS believes in producing leaders who will make a change in the world. This leadership is not taught through lectures or other educational media but by encouraging each student to take up a responsibility and therefore students are encouraged to dream, create, inspire and get inspired.

The young leaders in grade XI & XII successfully conceived, devised, proposed and organized an open house MUN for the first time. The basic idea behind this was to expose students to the event and give them an introduction to the proceedings of a MUN. Needless to say, MUNs are a great way for students to develop public speaking skills, become acquainted with diplomacy and international issues and enhance leadership skills.

The Secretariat consisted of :

Secretary General : Jaskirat Singh Lamba
General members : Yashita Bagga, Gurtaj Singh,
: Vipul Sharma and Gurinder Kaur.

YPS AT YALE NUS MUN!

The National University of Singapore organized a model ASEAN summit from August 12 to August 14, 2016. Our school was invited to be a part of this initiative and a contingent of 11 students represented YPS, at Singapore. We had two days to explore Singapore and indulge in leisure activities before we could actually crank up our gears for the debate. We visited Sentosa, Madame Tussauds and the Universal Studios, which was a magical experience for all of us. Now it was time for work and to represent our individual countries and organizations in the debate. This MUN was a simulation of the ASEAN and its various bodies. Nine committees were simulated and topics ranging from drug abuse in South East Asia, protection of sex workers and the rampant illicit wildlife trade were provided to the delegates to opine and develop creative and pragmatic resolutions. All in all, it turned out to be a joyous and fascinating experience and I would like to encourage fellow students to participate and get involved in these programs which are both fun and educative in nature!

OH! FOR A COOL DRINK OF WATER!

The alumni of the batch of 1990 celebrated their 25th year in 2015. The batch of 1990, indeed, has not forgotten their alma mater. With the sole objective of extending a helping hand, they presented a cheque to the Headmaster in December last year. The money has been put to use for the construction of a new centralized drinking water system on the campus. The significant changes that can be seen are the cemented water points on the three floors in the school building, which now supply cold water to all students throughout the day. In addition to this, drinking water tanks have also been installed near the main gate and beside the Amanjit Pavilion for all seeking to quench their thirst.

The donation made by our ex-students exemplifies the true nobility of giving back to one's school.

On behalf of the school, we express our gratitude towards the Batch of 1990 for the generosity shown to their alma mater.

Friendship Day

A special assembly by class VI N was held on July 22. Through skits, posters and poems the children brought out the importance of friendship in our lives. The assembly concluded with a song on friendship 'Yeh Dosti Hum Nahi Chodenge'.

Hiroshima Day

Peace is certainly better than a piece of land. The dropping of the bomb on Hiroshima is an example that war offers no solution to any problem. It only causes destruction of life and property. On August 5, Class X N, presented a play which highlighted the trauma faced by the people of Hiroshima. The assembly began with the song 'Let there be peace on Earth' and it ended on an optimistic note with the song 'Hum Honge Kamyab', praying for peace on Earth.

A DATE WITH SPACE

Our school organised an educational trip to the United States of America this year in June. Thirteen students, accompanied by two teachers got the chance to visit the John F. Kennedy Space Centre at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) in Orlando, Florida. The experience was more surreal than any of us had ever imagined. Our group got to walk among actual rockets of various missions, including Mercury, Gemini and the Orion Space Shuttle. Up next on our tour, we watched a documentary on the International Space Station which showed us the lives of astronauts, living in space for a period of six months. We were also fortunate enough to take a look at the historic space shuttle Atlantis. As always, the best was saved for last; we interacted with the former NASA astronaut Thomas David Jones who had completed four space shuttle flights before retiring in 2001. And to imagine he had completed 1000 hours in space!. We had an interesting discussion with him about life in space and space food in particular. The day spent at NASA was definitely a highlight of the USA trip and the experience will be something to treasure all my life.

Time Management

Note: Under no circumstances is this to be used as an excuse for submitting your homework late. Also this article is the epitome of logic and common sense (NOT)

Some of you might have made a disgusted face or even thrown up a little bit at the mere mention of this topic, because you have heard people harping on and on about time management as if it was the most important thing in the world (and yet you cannot seem to get the hang of it). But the fact of the matter is that the human mind is just not built that way. Time is one of the most difficult things a brain can try to comprehend.

Take a look at how we perceive large amounts of time. It is impossible for any human to get his head around the numbers used in the geological timescale (millions of years) and to have a fair grasp of just how much that actually is. To give you a bit of an idea, a snail moving at average speed (1 mm/s) for eight hours a day would be able to make 262 rounds of the earth's circumference in a million years. Now that's a lot. I'm pretty sure any number on such a large scale is impossible for anyone to visualise (yet the idea of an eternity in heaven/hell poses no such problem to people for some reason - but that is another matter entirely and will be discussed later).

So if people cannot grasp large amounts of time, it stands to reason that they will not be able to grasp small ones either (completely logical argument). And that is why proper time management is not embraced by the general populace - because they do not understand it in the first place. And that, kids, is how you make an argument out of complete nonsense.

FOR OUR CHILDREN

Students need to know how education
Can make life awesome
Exams should be seen as challenges
Rather than problems
Think about how learning should ideally be fun not stressful.
Listen to your teachers
When they tell you what to do
But more importantly think about it later
And ask yourself
Why they told you to do it.
Every one has a talent and so do you
Let it shine out is all you have to do
Education is the anchor that holds life
Together through choppy waters
Don't study to earn, study to learn
What you learn today is what you will become tomorrow.

Ms. Rekha Sharma

THERE IS ALWAYS A TRUE FRIEND

When things don't go as you wished
And the good time that you missed
When the world betrays you
And life curses you
When the rose doesn't smell pleasant
When darkness becomes the present
When there is no one to pick you up
And no one to wish you best of luck
When the moonlight is dim
And when you lose your vim
When the path seems impossible
And everything looks horrible
After a darkness you see a light
It holds your hand and gives you might
It tells you, you were never condemned
And that gleam is of a true friend

Mother Nature

Mother Nature, you have given us many trees,
And many flowers to the bees;
From the owl to the bear,
Mother Nature, I'm glad that you are here.
Mother Nature, you are mighty as an ocean,
And you have joy like a fountain;
When I'm close to you I feel no fear,
Mother Nature, I'm glad that you are here.
From the deep ocean to the mountain peak,
I can see you move and hear you speak;
You are all around, I can feel you near,
Mother Nature, I'm glad that you are here.

A Mother

When you spill your milk, who do you call?
When you catch a cold, who do you want?
It is Mommy who loves you with all her heart.
And takes you in her arms when you are hurt.
When you have to find a needle from a pile of hay,
It is Mommy who shows the way.
She does her duty well and whatever you say,
She will smile in response and show you the way!

My Trip to Leh and Ladakh

During my holidays, I went to Leh and Ladakh with my family. On the first day, we rested because we were very tired. On the second day, we visited the local market and the monasteries. On the third day, we went to Nubra Valley. On the way we crossed the Khardungla Pass, the highest motorable road in the world. In Nubra Valley, we drove ATV bikes on the sand. On the fourth day, we went to the Pangongso Lake. We stayed there in tents. On the last day we visited the local places and Rancho School which is famous for the shooting of the movie '3 Idiots'. I loved visiting the school, the monasteries, the Pangongso Lake and the Nubra Valley. It was a long trip. I missed my home but I loved it there.

The Fisherman and the Kettle

One afternoon, a poor fisherman went to a pond for fishing. On his way, he saw a kettle. While he was coming back, he saw the same kettle again. This time he picked up the kettle and took it home. He showed it to his wife and said, "Dear, I saw this kettle when I was going to the pond."

"Wow, thanks for this kettle. We needed one. I will use it to heat water," said the wife. "But I think, you must wash it first. It is full of dust," the fisherman suggested to his wife. "Sure. Now please go take a bath dear," replied his wife.

The fisherman's wife started washing the kettle. As soon as she poured some water in the kettle, the kettle turned away and started running. She was shocked and started running after it. The kettle ran inside a cupboard and the things kept in it, started falling down.

Hearing all the sounds, the fisherman came out of the bathroom and asked his wife, "What is going on and why is there a mess all around?"

"It is because of the kettle you've brought! It is a magical kettle and it has created all this mess", the wife answered, breathing really fast.

The fisherman was surprised. He said, "Wait a minute, let me catch this kettle." He caught it, looked inside and started laughing. The wife was surprised and asked, "Why are you laughing?" The fisherman replied with a smile, "My dear, magic is not making it run. It's a crab that is stuck inside."

"What! A crab! So that is the secret of the magical kettle", the fisherman's wife said and joined him in laughter.

I know that the rivers flow,
I know that how white is the snow,
But I don't know why the snow is white?

But I don't know why she will say "no!"

Summer Is In

The spring has gone and summer is in,
Juicy watermelons and sweet mangoes in a tin.
We'll learn swimming together in the pool,
Have lots of ice cream and become supercool.
Here comes the summer, we welcome it with a smile,
Wearing cotton clothes and moving in style.
Let's pack our bags and go to the hills,
Where the breeze would give us chills.
When there is no rain,
The farmers are in pain.
Let's pray to God to help those in pain,
At the end of summer, bring lots of rain.

The Sunny Day

We were out in the sun,
To have all the fun.
Oh! The sun was too hot,
Our head seemed like a boiling pot!
All the friends started to play,
As we had to spend the day.
The park was full of noise,
As we all rejoiced.
There was fun, there was play,
But no one was allowed to stay.
As time got past, the sun was down,
All started back running for the town.
I always remember the lovely time,
As it was the best of mine,
As it was the best of mine.
